ALWAYS A GOOD DAY AT THE SALON.....

Flower – Daffodil

By the time March rolls around, most of us are more than ready for spring to return. Finally, the snow begins to melt, and when the green stems of the daffodils shoot up toward the sky, it's official—spring has finally sprung! Though most parts of the daffodil plant are considered poisonous if consumed, it does have medicinal uses. The Japanese have used the bulb to treat wounds, and in some parts of the world, a compound called galantamine—found in the flower—is being studied to combat Alzheimer's disease.

Birthstone – Aquamarine

March's birthstone, aquamarine, is a gorgeous, ethereal pale blue gem that is most frequently found in the western United States and Brazil. Its name is Latin for "water of the sea," a fitting title for this blue-hued stone. Deeply blue aquamarines are the most valuable, though sometimes the gem can have a slight hint of green. The green stones are sometimes changed to blue by heating them in an electric furnace to 842°F (450°C). Aquamarine's watery color has made it a symbol of the purity of the oceans.
